THE COMPANY

Corporate trainings are cost-intensive, rare and highly demanded by employees. Companies usually hire specialists to create and organize a company's own training curriculum. This action is labor-intensive, manual (Excel & e-mail) and often does not match perfectly to the employees' needs. Due to the digital transformation and the market need for new skills, it is time to combine „the power of All“ and establish a collaborate way of learning and further development. Share a Chair provides a training platform, that enables regular companies to organize their trainings in an easy way and to share their free corporate training vacancies (chairs) to other companies – a Company2Company platform for more networking, diversity in trainings & less learning costs.

To bring our vision of shared and more accessible trainings to life the two founders are looking for a partner with strong technical skills to join the team. The pending EXIST-Application will help to ensure the salaries of the three founders (up to 3k/month) for the next 12 months.

YOUR RESPONSIBILITIES

- Leading the technical product development as CTO
- Build the technical component of the sharing platform
- Design of the product beyond the technical area

WHAT YOU BRING TO THE TABLE

- Strong architectural and programming skills
- Current or completed studies in the field of computer science, a comparable course of study or comparable qualifications
- Experience and interest in developing technical products and/or services
- Organizational skills, independent and proactive way of working in a team
- Entrepreneurial spirit and a 'get-things-done' attitude

WHAT WE OFFER

- Strong Vision, responsibility, creative freedom and time flexibility
- Build a company with us, with a high social relevance
- Fair and secure salary through the EXIST-Startup-Program (pending)

This is not just a job, it can become your project, your company and your future. Therefore we are looking for a partner who wants to take on responsibility from day one. You can expect an exciting and inspiring work environment and a team that supports each other in professional but also personal development.

If you bring a strong why – drop a mail or call us.
